bio

Johan Sjöström started to photograph in 2001 after a long time as a student in movies, graphic design and web design.

It turned into a big part of his life and after some time he worked as a photo assistant for photographer Petter Koubek.

The passion became more work related. As art photography transformed to street and documentary.

He started to freelance for two newspapers, Karlskoga Kuriren and Karlskoga Tidning.

After that he started studying at Brobygrafiska, Advanced vocational education and training in Photography / Digital Imagery

Under this time he started working as a photo assistant for photographer Åke Ericson. One of the more international photojournalist in sweden.

Influenced by his mentor Åke, he is now looking into making more story driven photos. To become a photojournalist.
